THE WOOL SITUATION

GREAT SHORTAGE NOW
THREATENS THE MILLS.

No Wool Now in Boston Warehouses—Feared That Mills Will Not Have Sufficient Supply to Last Until the New Clip Comes in—Prospects for Good Prices in the West Are Very Bright—Few Clips Are Contracted.

The extraordinary wool situation in the East is summed up tersely by the Shepherd's Bulletin of Boston, as follows:

The situation in wool is a most remarkable one, being seldom if ever before paralleled in the history of the trade. The demand has continued active for so long a time, and this year's clips have been taken so freely by large consumers that there remains now in the seaboard market but a small percentage of the stock usually on hand at this time of the year.

In fact, there is less wool in the Boston market today than is usually found there at the beginning of February. There is every indication of a very large consumption of wool during the next six months, as the mills are enjoying generally a good business, and the prospects are that there will be an excellent heavy-weight season for the manufacturers as the result of the cleaning up of stocks in the hands of the trade caused by the exceptionally cold weather experienced last winter.

With a large consumption of wool facing the trade, and with supplies reduced to such low limits, there is increased anxiety as to where they are to obtain sufficient stock to meet the wants of their usual customers.

The buying of the past few months has been mostly by the large consumers, and while the wants of the latter must be, by this time, pretty well supplied, the fact that a number of them are still in the market looking for desirable selections, and that the smaller concerns have not yet by any means supplied their wants, renders it pretty certain in the minds of the wool merchants that they will be "down to bare boards" before the clip of next year becomes available, and that to meet the needs of this country it will be necessary to import large quantities of foreign wool.

But it is not easy to secure large and desirable selections abroad except at continuously advancing prices. This is especially true of coarse wools, which have enjoyed the best demand for the past two years.

Seldom have foreign markets been so well cleaned up as they are at present, the war in the East having stimulated a demand for many lines of wool which are usually available for export to this country. The situation, in fact, increases steadily in strength as the weeks pass by, and holders of what wool remains here are reluctant sellers except at advanced prices.

It is perfectly natural, therefore, that there should have been more or less suppressed excitement in the wool trade the past week, and that in their desire to make suitable provisions for future wants, some wool men should have yielded to the temptation to contract for the 1905 clip.

This has been done to some extent in Idaho and Utah as well as in Oregon and Montana. Never before, at such an early date, has the attempt been made to contract for wools of the following season, and it is, perhaps, needless to state that these contracts have in a number of cases been made at very high prices.

The conservative members of the trade, however, regret this tendency, as it indicates to their minds the increase of a speculative spirit, which, if continued, may result in a scramble for the clip of next year, even before it is off the sheep's back.

It is, of course, absolutely impossible to determine what the character of the next year's clip will be—whether it will be well grown or short, whether of strong or weak staple, whether of heavy shrinkage or light shrinkage, whether larger or smaller in quantity; and to contract for next year's wool under these conditions comes about as near being a gamble as any business operation in which a merchant can indulge.

CLOSING OUT SALE.

Of Large Stock of Blankets and Comforters at Sullivan & Bond's.

We put in a large line of wool blankets and comforters when we opened business in our new building, but since we have concluded that this line don't go well with the clothing, shoes and furnishing business, and we have decided to dispose of the stock we have on hand and stop handling these goods.

In order to dispose of our stock we will offer some great cuts in prices, in fact we will be satisfied if we get our money back. Come in and we will tell you our cost work and you can take the blankets and comforters at just what they are marked. We lose the freight.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
